

What is the firewall?

The firewall is a network security system that is used to monitor the incoming and outgoing traffic and blocks unwanted traffic in the network. It acts as a wall between the internet (public network) and the networking devices (a private network). It is either a hardware device, software program or combination of both.